Arel J. V. Nikijuluw, representative of the South Molucean group in the United States, said at a news conference he had sent a letter to Dr Francisco Urrutia of Colombia, Council President, and to the other ten members.

RESUME INQUIRY

The letter asked the Council to resume the inquiry into the South Moluccan case that it began seven years ago. It also requested that the Council order a halt to the "state of aboriginal medical assistant, seige" now existing in the Republic of South Moluccas "as the result of the forcible actions by the Republic of Indonesia."

It further requested that the Council "effect promptly the withdrawal of all Indonesian troops from territory of the Republic of South Moluccas,"

The South Molucean group appealed to the General Assembly two years ago to debate the problem. The assembly took no action. The Security Council was expected similarly to ignore the group's request. The South Moluccas were described as an island group 400 by 700 miles in area that Includes Cerum, Ambolna, the Spice Islands, the Banda, Kal Aroe, and Taninbar groups. They lie north of Australia and west of New Guinea. They part of the Netherlands East Nikijuluw sald the South Moluccans had no diplomatic relations with other governments and had received no indication that any government would support their claim. He decied that the movement was financed by-Dutch interests.

He said that strict censorship and a "tight blockade" by the Indonesian Government had prevented the world from getting word of true conditions in the South Moluccas.

The Indonesian UN delega-United tion has branded the movement as "the brainchild of a tiny group of rebels who violently objected to the ultimate results of the Netherlands-Indonesian accord at the Hague at the close of 1949." Says BERNARD JOY

The first obstacle Fulham must surmount if they are to regain the First Division place they lost in 1952 is the inferiority complex of the defence.

Since the days of the brilliant inside-forward trio of Johnny Haynes, Bedford Jezzard and Bobby Robson, the defenders have been overshadowed. What is more, shortcomings in the side are attributed to them.

Manager Duggio Livingstone has told him: "It is better to have three goals to your name than make a dozen good basses which may come to nothing," and Haynes is not going to limit his play to that of a forager. LET'S PUT ENGLAND BACK

Remember Major Jimmy Tompkins, Fulham's greathearted half-back, who was killed in the invasion of France in 1944? Fulham pledged themrelves to look after his two orphaned children.

Today they have the reward which they dld not seek for their generosity. It is the 17th birthday of Tompkins' son Nell, and he is to sign us a professional.

PROMISING

He is the most promising youngster Fulham have. He is a left-half, stocky, fresh-faced and fair of hair.

But, meanwhile, the wing-half position is a problem, because there is no adequate standby for Eddie, Lowe and Stapleton. Players' Union chairman Jimmy Hill is now an 'inside-right and Norman Smith has given up football for the season in order to take his final accountancy examination.

So I put this suggestion to Fulham—give Roy Dwight the centre-forward berth and move Roy Bentley to right-half. I stake my reputation that Bentley's performances would be an eyr-opener and would even interest the England selectors.

Manchester United Beat Everton

London, Aug. 28. Manchester United, English League Football Champions for the past two reasons, are soon into their winning stride again. Having won their first match 3-0 on Saturday, they earned more points tonight by Leating Everton 3-0.

Wolverhampton and Portsmouth were in good scoring form. Wolves erashed in six goals against Bolton's one, and Portsmouth trounce Tottenham Hotspur 5-1. Peter Harris, England light winger, scored a hattrick for Portsmouth.

Another hat trick was scored by Inn McNeill, luside-right who helped Leicester, newly premeted to the First Division, to beat Sunderland 4-1.

Southend are setting a hot pace in Division Three South, scoring five against Norwich to bring their goal tally to ten from two games.

Worked The Trick In Bringing Back His Old Form

By TREVOR HILTON

At the Colley's home Billy is surrounded by mementoes and souvenirs from all over the place, while Mrs Colley is the proud possessor of the ball with which the Wolves won the Cup.

But there is nothing to recall what Billy describes as the blackest hours of his career. Suddenly and unaccountably he lost his form, and the harder he tried the worse he became. Then came the blow of being dropped from the England team and Billy's disappointment was almost greater than his worry about his form.

STILL A BACHELOR

To many people it may seem strange that Billy is still a bachelor and despite many opportunities has no girl friends. Almost certainly when he goes to the pictures it is either with Mrs Colley or Arthur Colley, and yet Billy strongly denies he is a worrest.

Consequently, money will not be Billy's chief consideration. Undoubtedly Wolves will want to keep him with them, but although Molineux is where Billy's heart is, I feel it would national appearances. strongly denies he is a woman-

Perhaps, when Billy's active! playing days are over, he will start to think in terms of marriage. If not only for himself but also for his country, it would be fine to have another Billy Wright coming along in a few years time; although, oddly enough, it is a strange fact that the sons who follow in the the sons who follow in the soccor footsteps of families fathers are very few, and, all fee frequently, even those who do are an exception if they even equal the skill of their dathers.

One thing is cericly. When Billy does stop playing, he will stay in the game in some capacity. Personally, I don't think the managerial—side particularly appeals to him, although undoubtedly he will receive some offers which will be very difficult to turn down. No. Billy's heart and interest are in passing on his knowledge to youngsters. Few people can match, his experience and knowledge of football all over the world and in so many different conditions and against so many varied types of opponents; and since Billy opponents; and since Billy always expects to learn something from every match and never forgets what he has learned, his soccor knowledge is undurpassed.

COMMON MARKET IN AMERICAS HAS SUPPORT

By HARRY W. FRANTZ

Washington, Aug. 28. The concept of an American Common Market, discussed at the Buenos Aires Economic Conference, seems thus far to find little support in either official or unofficial trade quarters here.

The counter-opinion is widely held that the American Republics should throw their support toward the evolution of a free world trade system marked by equal treatment for all countries and reduction of arbitrary obstacles to international
